

Disclaimer for essential travel to destinations with code orange

I hereby agree and confirm that I am aware of the fact that I am booking a tour during the Covid pandemic. I am aware that the government of my home country has issued a negative travel advice for the African destination I am traveling to. My government may label it as a destination with serious health risks or area where dangerous situations may arise for travelers. The Ministry of Foreign Affairs advises to travel to this area only if it is essential. The trip I have booked is essential for me and I am aware that the Ministry advises me - if I decide to travel anyway - to prepare very well.

I am aware that the travel advice is not obligatory: it remains my own responsibility to decide to go and that of the travel organisation to decide whether or not to allow a trip cannot take place.

My travel company African Travels accepts, in the broadest sense as permitted by law, no liability resulting from the situation that the travel destination I have booked has a negative travel advice while traveling to or at the travel destination and I will indemnify African Travels against possible claims by third parties in this regard.

My travel company African Travels has pointed out to me the stated risks of traveling to an orange-coded destinations (negative travel advice) and I acknowledge that because of this risk I am not entitled to cancel the agreement free of charge within 45 days before departure or to request a refund of the monies paid. I also acknowledge that I am not entitled to any compensation on this basis.

I am responsible for having the necessary documents on me, such as a valid passport or, where required, any necessary visas, proofs of immunisations and vaccinations, PCR tests, driving licence or international motor insurance certificate if applicable.

In the event I test positive for COVID 19 and cannot start the tour or board my flights, African Travels will not be liable for any additional costs this may incur. However, African Travels will assist and advice in the best possible way to make alternative travel arrangements etc.

Summarising: the mere fact that a country or area has been marked with a negative travel advice due to Covid does not entitle the traveler to cancel free of charge. The actual conditions at the destination and the surrounding area and the consequences of those conditions for the booked services are decisive for this.
